

ALLIES CLOSE TRAP ON GERMAN ARMY

SOVIET ARMY
TAKES FORT
AT OSOWIECOTHER TROOPS RACE
ACROSS ESTONIA
TOWARD RIGA

BY W. W. HERCHER
London, Aug. 14 (AP)—Gen. G. F. Zakharov's Second White Russian army today captured the Biebrza river fortress town of Osowiec, 17 miles from the German East Prussian border, and Berlin soberly warned the homeland that "a very great trial of strength" was at hand.

Osowiec, east bank stronghold on the Biebrza, fell as scores of thousands of attacking Russian troops sent the Germans fleeing across the river to roads slashed by the guns of swarming Soviet planes. Another town of the same name lies on the western side of the stream. The Russians apparently had not yet crossed the Biebrza, but this last water barrier before East Prussia is less of a problem than many larger rivers which the Red army has leaped quickly.

The Soviet communists also announced that Russian troops racing across southern Estonia toward the Gulf of Riga had captured 100 localities, including Antsla, which is only 80 miles from the Baltic coast.

Counter Attacks Fail
Antsla fell in a 19-mile advance from Voru and put the Russians almost half-way across Estonia in their drive to split up possibly 200,000 Germans trapped in Latvia and Estonia. The Soviet units now are only 16 miles from Valga, Latvian-Estonian border city through which runs the Riga-Tallinn railway—the backbone of German communications in the two countries.

In western Lithuania the Russians said their troops beat off heavy Nazi counterattacks at Raseiniai.

Northwest and west of Sandomierz, in the area of central Poland where the Russians have established a huge bridgehead west of the Vistula river near Warsaw, the Russians repulsed heavy German tank and infantry counterattacks in the grueling struggle to expand their holdings which already consist of nearly 1,500 square miles.

Berlin broadcasts also acknowledged Soviet advances northeast of Warsaw, where the Russians are within 11 miles of the Polish capital in a broad flanking drive aimed at reaching the Vistula river north of the city.

Planes Help
Inside Warsaw the Poles said their underground forces still were fighting the Germans in the streets, and Berlin itself told of "mopping up" operations against the Poles.

Captured Osowiec is 35 miles northwest of Bialystok and 25 miles southeast of Lyck, East Prussian rail junction on the fringe of the Masurian Lakes—the first World War battlefield. Swarms of Stenimov fighter-bombers pounded the Germans in the 15-mile corridor between the shattered Biebrza river defenses and the East Prussian frontier, and Moscow dispatches said that at many points on the German side of the border traffic was brought to a standstill by continuous air attacks.

Berlin told of bitter fighting at almost every point along the 1,000-mile front between the Baltic and the Carpathian mountains, and acknowledged Soviet gains in southern Estonia where it was said Gen. Ivan Maelennikov's Third Baltic army was pushing forward with 20 infantry and four tank divisions.

The Russians were within 95 miles of the Gulf of Riga in a

New Indictments May
Follow Graft Trials

Lansing, Aug. 14 (AP)—Turning from the freshly-completed legislative graft trial at Mason in which 20 persons were convicted of conspiracy and sentenced Saturday to serve three to five years in prison, the state's investigation of charges of governmental corruption fixed its attention on other phases of its inquiry today.

Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr, whose one-man grand jury caused arrest of the 20, said "it would be a reasonable inference that several additional warrants will issue, one of them before very long." He declined to discuss them.

AIR ASSAULTS
WEAKEN JAPSBombers Strike Nippon
Bases On Widespread Front

BY RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor
Japan's main defense line running from the Southwest Pacific northward through the Philippines is threatened by heavy and sustained allied aerial attacks against Nippon bases in the Dutch East Indies.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today said effective air assaults have "greatly weakened the great bastion stronghold centered at Halmahera," major island just 300 miles south of the Philippines.

The communique reported new raids on Halmahera that resulted in great fires and explosions. Southwest Pacific bombers hit over a wide area striking Japanese bases at Timor, Manokwari and other points.

This aerial activity against Japan shared the limelight with two impending battles in China where Chinese forces were massing for twin blows in their fight to reopen the strategic Burma Road as a land supply line.

Two Japanese strongholds in China's Yunnan province were the immediate objectives of the Chinese offensive that started weeks ago from the Salween River, pointed toward the Burma border. The Chinese were preparing for a smash against the ancient walled city of Tengchung. The Chinese continued to exert pressure on the isolated Japanese garrison at Sunghsan.

Steady progress was being made by Allied forces engaged in driving the last Japanese remnants out of northeast India. Only light opposition was met at two points.

"Commando" Kelly
Punished As AWOL

FT. BENNING, Ga., Aug. 14 (AP)—T-Sgt. Charles E. "Commando" Kelly, Pittsburgh, one-man army, blamed "well-wishers" today for making him overstay a furlough and receive a court martial punishment of $90 fine and three months restriction to his company area at Ft. Benning.

Results of the court martial were disclosed in a Fort Benning infantry school announcement. Under it, Kelly will lose $15 a month out of his pay for the next six months and not be allowed to leave this military reservation.

MANUFACTURE
ARTICLES FOR
CIVILIAN USENELSON SIGNS ORDER
FOR CONVERSION OF INDUSTRY

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson tonight lifted the war production board's ban on hundreds of civilian articles where local supplies of labor and machinery permit.

The long-awaited order, delayed since July 1 by the opposition of the army, navy and war manpower commission, is effective at midnight. Nelson said the order was the fourth and last in his program to provide "a mechanism for partial conversion of industry from wartime to peacetime production."

"For the time being," he warned, "it is not anticipated that any large increases in production of civilian goods will be possible." Cutting across 86 restrictive orders now on WPB's books, the action empowers WPB field offices over the country to let individual plants make consumer goods hitherto prohibited or restricted.

It provides priority aid, also, for concerns willing and able to manufacture any of several hundred "preferred" items listed by WPB as scarce and badly needed.

Many Needed Items
This preferred list covers such goods as vacuum cleaners, electric ranges, wash tubs, egg beaters, lawn mowers, sewing machines, church goods, bicycles, and oil burners.

If an eligible manufacturer cannot make one of the preferred items, the order provides, he may apply to produce less essential things, but he will not obtain a priority rating.

His application may cover any of the items restricted by the 86 orders, including even phonographs, gambling machines and fireplace sets, but WPB's permission in such cases is less likely.

Nelson said instructions would be issued to field offices accompanying the new "priority regulation 25," which would forbid increased civilian production until after labor checks had been made and the area WMC representative had certified that civilian goods production could be stepped up without labor recruiting.

Supplies of steel and copper continue to be short, Nelson said, and as a result little if any new production employing these metals will be permitted.

Manufacture of the more complicated consumer items, such as refrigerators and vacuum cleaners, will be subject in part to the availability of electric motors and other scarce components.

Bob Hope, Troupe Escape Injury In Forced Landing

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 15 (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope and his USO troupe touring the southwest Pacific to entertain servicemen escaped injury when their plane developed engine trouble and crash-landed in a new South Wales river yesterday.

Was he worried as the plane came down? "What do you think?" He replied to newsmen's queries today.

"We had to throw a lot of our personal gear overboard to lighten the plane," he related. "We all let our souvenirs go first and then the girls had to throw some of their glamorous clothes. 'Twas very sad."

Others in the party were Frances Langford, Jerry Colonna, Paty Thomas and Tony Romano. The plane was enroute from New Caledonia to Sydney when it made the crash landing near Laurieton, New South Wales, 276 miles north of Sydney. It developed engine trouble on the way from Guadalcanal.

Wholesale Jail
Delivery Fails

Media, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP)—An early morning attempt to liberate scores of the 200 prisoners at Broadmeadows, Delaware county jail, failed today after leaders of the break knocked a guard unconscious and took his keys.

The mass delivery was foiled when the key to a huge steel door between the cell block and the administration offices was not found in the guard's possession.

Prisoners, mostly short-termers and men awaiting sentence at the prison farm colony, released from their cells by the ring leaders, were stopped in the corridor by the steel door. Arrival of guard reinforcements checked the situation after an hour's uprising.

200,000 Enemy Troops
Face Battle To Death
In "Coffin Corridor"

BY JAMES M. LONG

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Tuesday, Aug. 15 (AP)—Triumphant Allied armies welded a trap of steel and artillery fire about the flower of the seventh German army today in the greatest victory of Allied arms in France, and from 100,000 to 200,000 enemy troops turned for a battle to the death.

Backing away from a hail of bombs and artillery shells sealanting a 12-mile gap at the eastern end of their Normandy "coffin corridor," the Germans checked their rush and some forces swung around west in an attempt to plug their leaking lines.

Thus they invited destruction—a consummation which would mean a gigantic victory for the Allies in the battle for northwest France, open the road to Paris, and clear the way for the final battles for northwestern and southern France.

3rd Army In Field
For this stroke, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a dramatic order of the day summoned his armies to drive ahead with every ounce of energy. For here, he said, was "a definite opportunity for a major Allied victory" after which Paris would fall with but little effort.

The southern jaw of the great Allied pincers was being closed by the U. S. Third army—which the Germans said was being led by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr.—battering up to within eight and a half miles of Falaise.

Canadian troops smashed to within 3½ miles of Falaise on the north in a rolling offensive that jumped off Monday after clouds of Allied bombers obliterated a German anti-tank screen before the city.

Between these two forces, long Toms from north and south raked every road leading east.

FRENCH URGED
TO AID ALLIESDeGaulle Asks People To Uprise Against The Germans

BY JUDSON O'QUINN
Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 14 (AP)—People of France were summoned today by Gen. Charles De Gaulle's French committee of national liberation to strike for their own freedom with a general uprising against the German occupiers whose hold on the country is weakening under Allied blows.

Calling for a national uprising which would be "the prelude of liberation," the committee statement said "There is not one Frenchman who does not feel and who does not know that it is his simple and sacred duty to take part immediately in the supreme war effort of his country."

"The French were told to strike with all their might and to harass the enemy by joining the direct war with the Allied armies, by laying down their tools in Nazi held factories and by destruction of small German garrisons."

They were asked to prevent Germans from fleeing through the Pyrenees and east and north to Paris. Special instructions are to be issued for the Paris area, said the statement.

After giving general directions on how Frenchmen in various areas could best harass and destroy the enemy, the call to arms concluded:

"Frenchmen, the hour of liberation sounds. Join up with the French forces of the interior. Follow directions of our leaders. A national uprising will be the prelude of liberation."

This call to Frenchmen came with announcement that French troops, commanded by Gen. Jacques, veteran of North Africa, were in action against the Germans on their home soil for the first time since France capitulated in 1940.

Garden Crops Hit
By Drought, Heat

Lansing, Aug. 14 (AP)—A 25 per cent loss in victory garden crops in Michigan this summer because of the drought was envisioned today by Paul R. Krone, chief of the state office of civilian defense victory garden section.

Krone said he doubted whether a break in the dry spell at this stage would revive garden crops fully. He said it was doubtful whether the state could reach the 20,000,000 bushel crop produced last year in home gardens, although a 25 per cent increase over last year had been projected.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, (by wireless)—What we gave you yesterday in trying to describe hedgerow fighting was the general pattern.

If you were to come over here and pick out some hedgerow-closed field at random, the fighting there probably wouldn't be following the general pattern at all. For each one is a little separate war, fought under different circumstances.

For instance, you'll come to a woods instead of an open field. The Germans will be dug in all over the woods, in little groups, and it's really tough to get them out. Often in cases like that we will just go around the woods and keep going, and let later units take care of those surrounded and doomed fellows.

Or we'll go through the woods and clean it out, and another company, coming through a couple of hours later, will find it full of Germans again. In a war like this one everything is in such confusion I don't see how either side ever gets anywhere.

Sometimes you don't know where the enemy is and don't know where your own troops are. As somebody said the other day, no battalion commander can give you the exact location of his various units five minutes after they're jumped off.

We will by-pass whole pockets of Germans, and they will be there fighting our following waves when our attacking companies are a couple of miles on beyond. Gradually the front gets all mixed up. There will be Germans behind you and at the side. They'll be shooting at you from behind and from

AMERICAN 3RD
ARMY IN FIGHTCloses Southern Arm Of Pincers On Germans
In Normandy

BY HAL BOYLE

American Third Army Headquarters, France, Aug. 14 (AP)—It was disclosed officially tonight that the American Third army is fighting in France and had closed the southern arm of the pincers movement that trapped the German Seventh army after one of the most spectacular armored surges in military history.

Supreme headquarters has withheld publication of the name of the Third army's commander.

(Another supreme headquarters announcement disclosed that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley was overall commander of the entire American force in France which includes the First and Third U. S. armies. Bradley's place as commander of the First army was taken by Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, previously commander of a U. S. army corps in France.)

(Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, military commentator for the Nazi propaganda agency transoceanic news, said Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., was leading the Third army.)

Certainly not since Patton's Seventh army chopped Sicily in half and with the help of Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British Eighth army on the right flank subdued the whole island in 38 working days has any Anglo-American army moved with such whirlwind speed.

Since going into action on Aug. 1, exactly two weeks ago, the Third army has smashed across and isolated the Brest peninsula in a dramatic charge reminiscent of the drive from Castel Vetrano to Palermo which split Sicily a year ago last month. It then turned eastward and in a gigantic encircling movement raced northward to bag the entire German Seventh army except those trying to escape through the narrowing Falaise-Argentan bottleneck.

Along the entire Italian front fighting dwindled to a few patrol actions. There were few artillery exchanges across the Arno river.

Fifteen New Cases
Of Polio Reported

Lansing, Aug. 14 (AP)—Fifteen new cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the state health department over the week-end, bringing the year's total to 174 cases and five deaths. It was reported today.

Dr. T. M. Kopps, director of the department's bureau of epidemiology, said "We have a long way to go until mid-October when the danger period ends, and it's hard to predict what will happen, but the number of cases is not building up too fast and we don't expect anything like the severe epidemics of 1939 and 1940."

Seven of the new cases were in Detroit, one in Dearborn, two in Ann Arbor, one in Wayne, one in Lenawee county, one in Washtenaw county, one in Port Huron and one in Washtenaw county.

AIR ARMADAS
HIT GERMANY
AND FRANCEHAMMER DEFENSES
AND INDUSTRIES
RELENTLESSLY

BY NED NORDNESS
London, Tuesday, Aug. 15 (AP)—Berlin rocked to the blast of bombs again last night as RAF Mosquitos plastered the German capital with explosives in a foray complementing the work of some 3,000 Allied heavy bombers which battered Germany's home and fighting fronts yesterday.

The attack on Berlin was disclosed in a terse British announcement and the German-controlled Paris radio said targets in the vicinity of Paris also were hit.

Yesterday's great daylight attacks came in answer to Gen. Eisenhower's call for an all-out effort to smash Germans fighting strength.

Two explosive-packed air fleets totalling nearly 1,500 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators lashed at already battered industrial targets in southern Germany and at airbases and freight yards from northeastern to southwestern France.

A British bomber force—predominantly heavies—battered paths through the German lines in the Falaise sector in direct support of the major Canadian drive southward attempting to close the narrowing gap to trap Field Marshal Gunther Von Kluge's scattered and retreating Seventh army.

Riviera Hit Again
Up to 750 American heavy bombers at the same time struck from Italy, smashing German military installations in the Riviera section in the south of France for the third consecutive day of incessant operations by tactical forces of the Mediterranean command.

The weather, after a hazy start, cleared beautifully to aid the Allies in their continued hammering offensive against enemy roads, junctions, bridges, freight yards and troops.

Marauders and Mitchells of the second tactical airforce started an aerial offensive in front of the Canadian push shortly before noon, pointing specifically for three German strongpoints along the escape corridor only 3,000 yards in front of Allied troops.

Some 750 Fortresses and Liberators streamed into the Reich to plaster the I. G. Farben industrial chemical plant at Ludwigshafen, an electrical equipment factory at Mannheim where parts for jet-propelled planes are made, and force stations at Sandhofen, near Mannheim, and Echterdingen, near Stuttgart.

Intense flak was encountered over Mannheim and Ludwigshafen and three bombers and one fighter were missing from the operation. This brought the total loss from all operations of the Eighth Air Force heavies and fighters to four bombers and four fighters.

A second force of up to 750 Fortresses and Liberators visually bombed the railway yard at Angoulême in the Bordeaux area, bridges northeast of Paris, and Metz-Frescamp, Lyon-Bron, Dole.

PVT. BERTELS WAR CASUALTY

Northland Soldier Lost In Action Since July 25

Pvt. Alphonse Bertels, 33, Northland, has been reported missing in action in France since July 25, according to a War Department telegram received by his mother, Mrs. Peter Bertels of Northland.

Pvt. Bertels was employed at the Budd Wheel company plant at Detroit before entering the service in September, 1943. After receiving training at Camp Van Dorn, Miss., and Fort George Meade, Md., he went overseas last May. He visited his home in Northland last April.

His wife resides in Springfield, Ore.

Secretary Wickard Tours U. P. Forest

Iron River, Mich. (Special)—Claude S. Wickard, United States secretary of agriculture, arrived here Monday, accompanied by Forest Service officials, to make an inspection tour of the Ottawa national forest. His itinerary called for stops at the Ontonagon and Watersmeet ranger stations with an overnight stay at the Gateway.

Secretary Wickard was accompanied by Jay H. Price, Milwaukee, regional forester of the Forest Service, and R. B. McKennan and Kermit Udd, supervisor and assistant supervisor of the Ottawa national forest.

Robert Leafblad, Infant, Is Dead

Robert Earl Leafblad, newborn son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Leafblad, of 1102 Stephenson avenue, died at 11 o'clock Monday morning at St. Francis hospital. The baby was born on August 12.

Surviving are the parents, Mrs. Leafblad, the former Lillian E. Westman, of Ashland, Wis.; one brother, Howard Allen, 4, and one sister, Carol Jean, 7.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home where services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Birger Swenson of Calvary Baptist church, officiating, and burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

Obituary

J. OSCAR NELSON
Final rites for J. Oscar Nelson were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Anderson funeral home, and at 2:15 o'clock at Bethany Lutheran church. Dr. C. Albert Lund officiated, assisted by Student Pastor Howard Olson. The services were very largely attended and there were many beautiful floral offerings.

Rev. Dr. Lund paid high tribute to Mr. Nelson's Christian character in his sermon, the text of which, from Isaiah, 55th Chapter, 8th and 9th Verses, was: "My thoughts are not your thoughts, either are your ways. My ways, saith the Lord." The assistant's text was from John, 3rd Chapter, 16th Verse, C. Arthur Anderson sang a requested hymn in the Swedish language, "Vo Bo Ej Har," and in English, "I'm a Pilgrim, I'm a Stranger." Miss Lois Lundstrom was accompanist.

Burial was in Lakeview cemetery. Pallbearers were John Sandberg, Edwin Carlson, John Lindstrom, Alvin Carlson, Henry Peterson and John S. Back.

Those from out-of-town at the funeral were Mrs. David Olson and Mrs. Oscar Nelson of Chicago; Mrs. Henry Nelson of Marquette; and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Stenstrom of Moose Lake, Minn.

Beaumont, Tex., Aug. 14 (AP)—Plays the great Knute Rockne never lived to use may blossom on the gridiron of South Park high school this season.

It was the day before the football master of the Fighting Irish met death in a plane crash in 1931 that Paul Tyson, builder of champions at Waco high school in Texas, received from Rockne at his home a booklet containing two dozen plays diagrammed in "the Rock's" own hand.

Rockne explained he was going to use those plays in the coming season but that he was making a present of them to his friend, Tyson that season was on leave of absence from Waco high and in the years that followed forgot about the gift.

He came across it just the other day.

"I may use some of those plays this fall," mused the tall, spare mentor. "They are all great."

WHAT PROPELS NAZI ROBOTS?

Engine Of Flying Bomb Constructed Like Mouth Organ

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor
New York—The engine of the Nazi flying bomb is built like a mouth organ.

It is an 11-foot long stove pipe, virtually empty except for a mouth organ grill which closes its front end and which is only about two inches deep.

The simplicity is fantastic. The simplicity is also awesome, because it suggests what scientists may do to make larger, longer-range bombs.

The information comes from the British journal, Flight and Aircraft Engineer, and from inspection of flying bombs recently received in the United States.

Honeycomb Grill

The grill of the robot harmonica is shaped like a honeycomb, but it is formed of oblong mouth organ holes. Two dozen of them fill the forward end of the stove pipe. They are a wind instrument, the same as a mouth organ. In the harmonica, the holes lead to reeds which vibrate. In the bomb, each hole is filled with a paper-thin sheet of spring steel, sloping backward and upward like a ramp, closing it completely.

The headwind of the plane's flight blows into the grill and ripples the paper-thin metal sheets. This causes momentary openings on one edge of a sheet, letting air flow back through the grill into the pipe.

Here the entering air mixes with gasoline being sprayed through jets into the pipe, and makes an explosive mixture. A single spark plug, set aside the pipe, explodes the gasoline.

50 Times A Second
This explosion, blowing in reverse on the harmonica, closes the openings, forming them momentarily into a wall against which the blast pushes the engine forward. This explosion is repeated about 50 times a second. The harmonica device is technically known as a flutter valve.

An amazing feature, to engineers, is that the explosion does not put a destructive strain on the thin, welded steel which forms the pipe.

The sound, which was reported as terrifying at first, is partly due to the principle of a pipe organ. In an organ a long pipe, which is frequently about the same diameter as the robot engine pipe, amplifies a small sound by resonance. In the robot engine, the explosion travels down the long pipe to the open end as a resonant wave. The resulting tone is pulsating.

Not A New Idea

Neither the idea of a resonant engine nor of this type of flutter valve to operate it are new. The Germans are the first known to have put it to practical use. The flutter mechanism was proposed originally by a Swiss engineer. In the book "Gas Turbines and Jet Propulsion," by Geoffrey Smith, who is now in the United States representing the British Supply Council, there is an illustration of a jet-propelled French aircraft designed to function by the ram effect of the air, somewhat like the Nazi flying bomb.

As a power plant the engine is not very efficient, using about one gallon of gasoline per mile, against two or three miles per gallon of comparable single-engine airplanes.

However there appears to be nothing except expense to prevent the building of robots carrying 5, 10, or 50 tons of explosive, nor of giving them enough power plants to fly short distances.

Bugs In The Doodle Bug

But the action of the robots over England shows a limit to their size which may be difficult to overcome. When for any reason, such as bullets, flak or gasoline running low, the speed slackens, the flying bomb leaves its straight course and begins to gyrate much like a July Fourth chaser.

This applies also at the start of flight. The robot has to be traveling at virtually full speed by the time it leaves its launching platform or it may turn on its friends. The mouth organ engine does not work well until the plane's speed is high enough to produce a strong head wind to open the flutter valves.

This difficulty seems to explain the size of the launching platforms where this robot is catapulted into the air via a rail. Photographs show the one-ton robot launching platform to be about 200 yards square. For larger bombs, the size of the area might be prohibitive.

Eastern Grid Ass'n Adopts Rule Changes

New York, Aug. 14 (AP)—The executive committee of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association today approved six changes in the grid code for its teams for the coming season.

- The changes:
1. Prohibit out-of-bounds kick-offs by penalizing the kicking team five yards until a legal kick is made.
 2. Permit use of a one-inch artificial tee for the kickoff.
 3. Lessen severity of penalties for illegal forward passing when made beyond the line of scrimmage or when made by team which did not put ball in play.
 4. Clarify the offside rule.
 5. Permit all fumbles to be advanced by opponents.
 6. Permit passing anywhere behind the line of scrimmage.

ENEMY TROOPS FACING DEATH

ward to the Seine and Paris, and waves of bombers added to the hurricane of fire.

Retreat Halted

Before this gap vanished. Germans had been seen streaming eastward with bayonets, bicycles and every other farm vehicle they could commandeer toward the uncertain sanctuary of the Seine.

There seemed no explanation for their decision to turn and fight other than that retreat no longer was possible.

Those who escaped the bottleneck were seen racing northeast toward the Seine along a route which Allied mastery of the air has turned into a path of death and destruction.

But, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, now disclosed to be the overall commander of all U. S. forces in France—the greatest ever massed the battle under the American flag—declared he was confident the bulk of the Seventh could not escape.

The Third army, disclosed to be fighting alongside the American First army, also was the force that sealed off the Brest peninsula before turning east in the momentous wheeling movement that taught the Germans a lesson in lightning warfare.

It came so rapidly that as doughboys swept up to German positions they actually found enemy guns pointing the other way. Apparently the enemy did not know or could not figure out which way the lightning would strike.

"Improved" Blitzkrieg

One of the swiftest maneuvers ever seen on any battlefield, the drive began when a German rout before Le Mans disclosed to amazed American generals that the enemy had neglected to protect his southern flank.

Whether from stupidity or from lack of reconnaissance, the Germans made no attempt to break out of the pocket until American artillery brought the last avenue of escape under fire.

The Germans invented blitzkrieg," one general said, "and we perfected it. . . we also borrowed and improved on the German's 'wedge and kessel' that is, to make your breakthrough with armor, encircle the enemy, then chew him to pieces."

"It will be a military miracle if the Germans got out anywhere near whole," an Allied staff officer declared. "This is the end of a German army."

Gen. Charles de Gaulle's French Committee of National Liberation, with an armored division disclosed to be fighting beside the Americans, issued a dramatic call tonight for national civilian uprising to hasten the day of liberation.

On the battlefield, the only question was how many troops the Allied armies could kill or catch and how many the enemy could withdraw across the Seine to fight again.

Abandon Dead

The Americans striking from Mortain—site of Field Marshal Gen. Guenther von Kluge's folly, the attempt to break through the Normandy-Brittany corridor—drove east seven to 12 miles. The Germans were abandoning their dead and had no time to dig in behind hedgerows.

The doughboys took Barenton, six miles east of Mortain, and recaptured Domfront, eight miles farther on in a drive toward the east while other Allied troops coming down from the north captured St. Martin-Du-Chateau in a two-mile advance below Vire.

Thury-Harcourt, Orne river stronghold of "Normandy's Switzerland," was firmly in British hands after a teetering battle yesterday in which flames from the ruins once drove both sides from the town.

A mighty striking force of RAF heavies, as well as British Free French, Dutch and Canadian tactical warplanes broke open the way for the Canadian march toward Falaise with a saturation attack.

100,000 Trapped

The minimum of 100,000 Germans estimated to be in the pocket were about one-fourth of the enemy force contacted by the Allies since D-day.

This giant trap was the reason behind five days of official secrecy, and represented far bigger stakes than a dash to Paris.

Allied sources believed only new German armies could stem the tide of Allied conquest, but it was thought Von Kluge had already drawn on at least 40 of the up to 65 divisions at his disposal.

There was no change in the battle for the Breton ports. Some gains were made at the most important port of Brest but the attack had not yet reached major force.

St. Malo still held out, and St. Nazaire and Lorient were encircled.

Tavaux and Dijon-Longvic airdromes. The last three are in the vicinity of Dijon.

Enemy shipping at the besieged Brittany port of Brest received another shattering blow from British heavy Lancasters.

No Fighter Attack

In all these far-flung attacks not a single enemy fighter came up to challenge the Americans, although the Germans attempted to defend the rail routes with intense anti-aircraft fire.

The airmen began by smashing at rail transport in Pas De Calais because the Germans were known to be trying to bring supplies down from Belgium.

A senior officer of the Eighth Fighter Command disclosed that the eighth's fighters switched from normal strategic operations to tactical work in support of the Allied armies in France because of the fast-developing ground situation and knowledge that the Germans were attempting to supply and reinforce their frontline troops largely by rail through Paris.

Reconnaissance showed that Paris railway yards were jammed and the enemy was known to be in a bad position because of his lack of many kinds of supplies. The Eighth's bomb-carrying fighters were turned loose a week ago today with instructions to rip up everything they could find in the way of rail transport in the area north of the Seine to Belgium and east from Paris to the German border.

The Ninth at the same time concentrated on areas near the battlezone.

Estimates place England's rat population at 40,000,000.

Sgt. Stroller Back From South Pacific

Gunnery Sergeant Damien Stroller of Hermansville is now home on a 30 day furlough granted him after two and a half years of service with the United States Marines in the South Pacific.

Stroller, who took part in the invasion of Tarawa has been in service for 3 years and this is his first visit home since he entered the Armed Forces.

While on duty in the South Pacific, Stroller met Corporal Robert Hanson also of Hermansville in the battle of Tarawa and both men were in the same battery.

Among the large collection of souvenirs Stroller has garnered, he values most a tooth he retrieved from a dead Jap and he calls it his "good luck charm."

After his furlough, Stroller is returning to duty and will be given different assignment in the states.

100 Bean Pickers Needed In County

Because of the large number of persons previously registered who are now unable to help with the bean harvest in Delta county, Bradford Loveland, county farm labor agent, yesterday issued a call for 100 more bean pickers.

Persons who wish to work in bean fields of the county are asked to register at the county agricultural agent's office in the court house.

The harvesting of wax beans is now almost completed, and green beans are maturing rapidly. Indicating the demand for pickers, Loveland said that farmers had requested 175 pickers the other day and that he was able to supply only 114.

This need for dividing up

THERE HAS TO BE A DIVIDING-UP when needed things are scarce. What we have must be so distributed that all get a like share and none a lion's.

That's the reason for rationing. None can have abundance while another lacks enough—certainly nothing could be fairer.

But while these are lean days for the wanters of many things, some of the most pleasant things are priority-free—you can still enjoy a good highball. And you will particularly enjoy one made with IMPERIAL.

For this famed blend is actually "velvety"—which adds to IMPERIAL a distinguished smoothness, an extra goodness, a mellowness you'll like.

FLOSS HARVEST TO START SOON

Jerry Marsicek To Head
Milkweed Pod Drive
In U. P. District

Jerry Marsicek, Escanaba, has recently been called upon to serve as district supervisor of the milkweed pod collecting program of War Hemp Industries, Inc. He will, with the assistance of the county agricultural agents, county school commissioners, county war board chairman, Scout leaders and others, arrange for the collection of milkweed pods.

During the coming fall, the U. S. Government has requested for manufacture of life jackets for the Army and Navy 1,500,000 pounds of floss which will require 2,250,000 50 lb. onion bags full of pods. The school children will collect possibly 95% of all the milkweed pods that are collected. Last year they did splendidly in a program that was a little delayed in getting underway. However, this season, with an ample supply of empty bags available before school begins and all necessary organizational details well in hand, the program of harvesting can be considered as "in the bag" so to speak.

"It requires the floss from two bags of pods to make one life jacket. With so few American homes not having contributed men and women to the task of an early victory and lasting peace, every school-age youngster should feel a personal responsibility for collecting at least enough pods to make one life jacket and as many more as it is possible to get," Marsicek said.

There will be buying stations conveniently situated throughout the county and the locations will be announced later. It will be possible to sell the freshly picked pods for 15¢ an onion bag full; or if the bags of freshly picked pods have been hung on fences in bright sunlight for a long enough time to become "crackly" dry, they will then be worth 20¢ a bag. Please address all inquiries on the program either for bags or information to the district supervisor or inquire of your county agricultural agent, 4-H Club leader, school teacher, or county war board chairman.

Students Advised To Enroll Now In Apprentice Class

Seniors of the Escanaba high school who desire to enroll in the apprentice training program are requested to notify Principal Edward E. Edlek, phone 1629, or to call the superintendent's office this week. The program is open to both boys and girls.

Under the apprentice training program, students will work part time in local industries and stores and will supplement the program with classroom work. They will be paid for their part time work by the institutions at which they are employed.

The program predominately is for students who do not plan to go to college and desire to utilize this opportunity to train for jobs in local industries. Clarence Pearson will be the coordinator of the apprentice training program.

The Venus Foundation Garment company is one of the first of the local industries to indicate its willingness to cooperate in the apprentice training program.

Lt. Donald Jensen Awarded Air Medal

15th Air Force in Italy—2nd Lieutenant Donald E. Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris M. Jensen, Arnold, Michigan, has recently been awarded the Air Medal for "meritorious achievement while participating in sustained operational activities against the enemy." He is a bombardier on a 15th AAF Liberator bomber, and is flying with a veteran organization that has activity participated in the aerial offensive against Nazi industrial and communications targets in the Balkans, Northern Italy and Southern Germany.

Lt. Jensen attended Gwinn high school, Gwinn, Michigan and was a truck and tractor driver for the Eldore-Pallent Timber Lumber Co., prior to entering the Armed Forces in November 1942. He received his pre-flight training in bombardiering at Ellington Field, Texas. Gunnery training at Laredo, Texas and advanced schooling at Midland, Texas. He was commissioned in December 1943 with the ratings of bombardier in the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Since arriving at a base in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations, Lt. Jensen saw on numerous missions over enemy-occupied territory, among them, attacks on such high priority targets as Ploesti, Munich and Vienna.

Comes Back After 32 Years To Find Many Changes Here

William Morton of Lexington, Mo., who left Escanaba 34 years ago, visited here yesterday with his wife—and found plenty to remark upon in the many changes that have taken place since then.

For five years before he left Escanaba "Bill" Morton was night clerk at the Oliver House, a once-famous hostelry fronting on Tilden at Wells, now Third street and First avenue south. Morton was born in Delta county, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Chester Morton. He attended school at Ford River and Escanaba.

The Oliver House was a leading hostelry of its time. It was a brick building with about 65 rooms—but only two of them had baths.

"There were no telephones or running water in the rooms in those days, and the two rooms that had baths were considered to be very modern," Morton recalls. "Salesmen, mining men and timber men were on the guest list most of the time, and there were some big poker games going on."

The hotel's dining room was considered outstanding, and there was a bar in connection that was equally popular. Women did not frequent the bar, wines were on the bar list only for serving with meals in the dining room, and whisky was the popular drink.

Beer was consumed in quantities, mostly the product of the old Escanaba Brewing company which was operating then and "made

News From Men In The Service

Pfc. Floyd H. Beauchamp has notified his mother, Mrs. Alice Beauchamp, that he is now in combat duty in New Guinea. He arrived in New Guinea in April of this year after receiving his training at Fort Jackson, S. C., and Camp Pickett, Va. Before entering service, Pfc. Beauchamp was employed by the Birds Eye Veneer company.

Pvt. Lawrence Joint of Escanaba who is in combat duty in Italy reports that he's in the best of health and expects to be home by Christmas. Pvt. Joint was in the battle of the Anzio beachhead and is now on the drive through Italy.

The War Department has approved the request of Sgt. Robert M. Tryan, 149th Anti Aircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion for transfer to the Infantry.

Oscar and Mose Boyce, brothers of his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Morton expect to leave today to return to their home in Missouri, anticipating a visit from the son who is expected home on leave from duty in the Pacific where he has been in four major invasions.

"The heat? Say this isn't hot here in Escanaba," Morton said. "Down in the Missouri River valley country where we live we don't take off our mittens until the mercury hits 96 degrees."

according to an announcement by the Public Relations Office, AAATC, Fort Bliss, Texas.

Sgt. Tryan volunteered for duty with the "Queen of Battle" at a time when the importance of the Infantry is becoming apparent to everyone.

Sgt. Tryan who lives at Escanaba, Mich., entered on active duty at Fort MacArthur, Calif., on Dec. 28th, 1939, and has served in the Panama Canal Zone and the U. S. A.

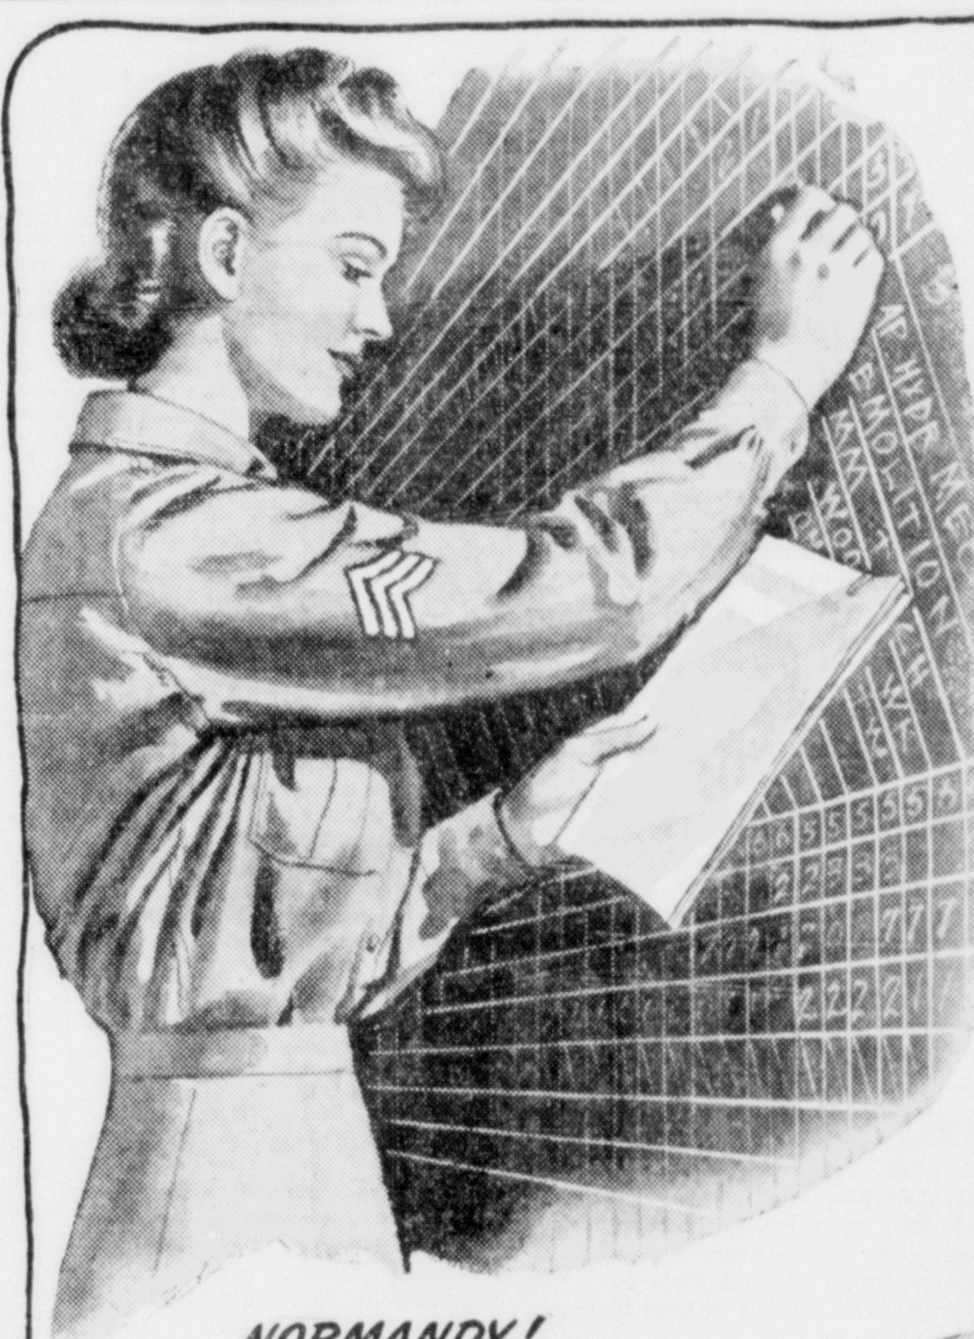

He has been awarded a Good Conduct Medal, the American Defense Medal and the American Theatre Medal.

2nd Lt. Robert Embs, who is in the European theatre of war, has been advanced to the rank of first lieutenant, the promotion orders coming from General Dwight D. Eisenhower. Lt. Embs is the son of Mrs. Anton Embs, of 325 South Seventeenth street. Mrs. Embs was notified of the promotion, which was effective August 5, in a letter received yesterday from her son.

Staff Sergeant Norman Lancour, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lancour of Osler, was recently promoted to technical sergeant. He is serving in the South Pacific.

From Bad to Worse

EVEN the Communist labor racketeers, who it is openly charged in many quarters, have bought control of the once honored Democratic party in Michigan, probably feel they made a poor bargain with the New Dealers, as the result of developments down at Lansing last Saturday.

Fifteen New Deal former senators and representatives and a couple Republicans, they were able to contaminate during the 1939 session of the state legislature, were convicted of grafting by a jury in the Washtenaw county circuit court and sentenced to prison for terms of from three to five years.

In addition, other New Deal members of the 1939 legislature and one Republican have either pleaded guilty to the charges against them or are now serving prison sentences. Also caught in the grand jury net, as the result of an investigation launched several months ago, are officials of small loan companies who now stand convicted of putting up the money to influence legislative votes. Of course, all of the convicted defendants will appeal from the verdict of the jury and the lower court, but as the case now stands before the people of Michigan, a sorry picture is presented of former New Deal leadership in this state.

With such a record it is little wonder that Communistic racketeers found it so easy to assume control of a once proud and honored political party in this state. Maybe it was an act of providence that permitted Michigan's good, grey governor, the late Woodbridge N. Ferris and other Jeffersonian Democrats of his day, to pass into the Great Beyond well before the party that he honored and was honored by, should fall into such unworthy hands.

Education First

ONE of the harmful effects of this war on the home front will be the mistaken notions that fat pay envelopes will inculcate into the minds of the American youth.

Teen-agers have been making all the way from three to ten dollars a day doing man-sized jobs in war plants, stores and other branches of commerce and industry. Schools will reopen in Escanaba and every other city and hamlet in America in September, and at that time many youngsters will have a momentous decision to make. Should they continue making the big money while the getting is good, or return to the classroom in the hopes of completing their high school education?

The big money looks good, now, but it will not last, of course. In the postwar era, the competition of brains will be keener than ever. More Americans will have college educations or else specialized trade school training. Returning service men will be afforded unusual educational advantages, for instance.

College educated people will be as common after this war as high school graduates were a quarter century ago. Those who succumb to the lure of high wartime wages now and stay out of school may never get around to completing their education after the war is over. The time for teen-agers to go to school is now.

Home Town Loyalty

WHAT is the matter with citizens who speak disparagingly of any achievements made by their home community while they gloat over any difficulties it may encounter?

For instance, Escanaba has recorded some outstanding civic gains during the past two decades, accomplishments which have been the envy of many other cities. Escanaba has fine streets, boulevard lighting, efficient, profit-making utilities and many other physical improvements.

Unfortunately, some citizens treat their community like they treat their fellowmen. Rather than taking pride in the successes of the people they know they display a streak of jealousy, and derive much enjoyment from their misfortunes.

If Escanaba's new industries encounter wartime obstacles in getting under full production, the grippers harp on this fact. If municipal projects develop "bugs" that time will eventually iron out, these same complainers lose no time to spread ill-advised rumors about them.

A little more home town loyalty would be a good thing. Fortunately, the knocks we receive from our own citizens are often offset by the words of praise that are spoken in all sincerity by visitors from other communities.

Theory and Practice

ABOUT thirty years ago, the University of Cincinnati attracted much attention in educational circles with its program to square theory with practice by having its students work part time in the industries of that area.

By the time the University of Cincinnati students were graduated, they had received much practical experience supplementary to the book learning received in the classroom. In many instances, these graduates stepped right into jobs in the industries that were cooperating with the university in this unique venture.

Other colleges adopted the cooperative educational program. Its success resulted in its adoption by high schools throughout the country, including Escanaba's. The program lapsed here with the outbreak of war, but next fall it will be resumed on an expanded scale under the auspices of the state board of control for vocational education.

High school students will again take courses to fit them for jobs in Escanaba's factories, stores and business offices, and at the same time will work part time in these fields of industry and commerce. The new plan will permit the students to work longer shifts in local industries which are now handicapped by a wartime manpower shortage. They also will receive some financial compensation in addition to non-academic credits.

Gearing of the educational system to the trained labor needs of local industry is a step in the right direction and is being facilitated in large measure by the opening of the new vocational training school here last year.

Rubber Chief Quits

BRADLEY DEWEY'S request that his own agency, the Office of the Rubber Director, be abolished is encouraging. It is good to see one war problem licked and one war agency's work finished.

It is even better to reflect upon the splendid work done by Mr. Dewey and his predecessor, William Jeffers, and upon the remarkable accomplishments of American science and industry in putting synthetic rubber into production.

All this doesn't mean a lot of new tires for civilians. The rubber supply is now adequate, but shortages in manpower, facilities, and certain materials like cotton and rayon cord remain. New factories, built at a cost of 75 million dollars, will provide new facilities late this year. But they may also create new manpower problems.

These problems, however, can be overcome. The main interest in Mr. Dewey's request is the knowledge that our first, most pressing, potentially fatal war shortage has been licked.

Other Editorial Comments

LET'S BANISH IT (Grand Rapids Press)

There has been no wartime phrase so overworked as the tiresome bromide, "Don't you know there's a war on?" With irritating consistency it is offered as an excuse for shoddy service, whether legitimately so or not, and most of the other unpleasant incidents in our daily life.

That is the reason why a proposal by Glenwood J. Sherrard, president of the American Hotel association, calls for enthusiastic approval. Coincident with the war manpower commission's curtailment of hotel services, Sherrard has appealed to all hotel employees dealing directly with the public to cease using the phrase, pointing out that it is no excuse for poor service. And he might well have added that poor service is no excuse for this ill-mannered retort.

Hotel employees have been no more guilty of overworking this phrase than any of the rest of us. And Sherrard's advice to them is equally applicable to all. All of us should be constantly conscious that in these times we cannot expect peacetime service. A little more understanding and fewer ill-considered complaints and retorts both by those who serve the public and the public itself would go a long way toward banishing "Don't you know there's a war on" to the limbo it deserves.

Take My Word For it . . . Frank Colby

Pencilillin again, by urgent request. When development of "the wonder drug" was announced, most doctors and lay speakers, not being acquainted with the origin of the name pencilillin, began calling it "pen-iss-i-llin."

Since the word is too new to be found in the ordinary dictionary, this column explained its origin, and pointed out that "pen-iss-i-llin" is in violation of the etymology of the word. Most radio speakers and members of the medical profession now use the correct pronunciation: PEN-i-SILL-i-n.

The mold that produces the drug is of the genus Penicillium, pronounced, PEN-i-SILL-i-um, from the Latin penicillium (PEN-i-SILL-i-um), "a little brush," for the mold, under the microscope, appears to be covered with fine tufts.

The word penicillin is properly syllabified thus: pen-i-sill-i-n. It is obvious, then, that to accent the -i- and pronounce it "iss" is improper. In all words derived from the Latin penicillium—such as, penicillate, penicilliform, Penicillium, and, of course, penicillin—the main accent falls on the third or -cil- syllable.

Correct pronunciation: PEN-i-SILL-i-n. French Places to Watch.

The Round Table

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

The advent of air transportation naturally affects all older types of transport, such as steamship lines, railroads and motor transport, with their far-reaching financial interests. The relations between the surface and sky carriers therefore is certain to be a subject of ever increasing discussion. Already the problem has arisen in many countries in the form of demands by some surface transport groups for preferential rights to control aerial business.

As the struggle for control of the new medium of communication unfolds, prevailing opinion seems to be that the needs of commerce can best be met if the surface carriers "stick to their knitting" and leave aerial transportation to specialized independent airlines. Certainly this is the opinion about international and overseas traffic through the air highways. In both the United States and England, for instance, surface carriers are forbidden, with certain exceptions, to engage in air transportation.

—SHIPPING MONOPOLY URGED—

Many railroaders and shipowners are not reconciled to this general view. They insist that they have an inherent preferential right to own and control airlines in international and transoceanic operations. This aspect of the problem is perhaps most acute in England, because that country has for centuries depended on its great mercantile fleet for its prosperity. Whatever revision of long-range transportation is made in the next few years, England will feel the impact most sharply.

Recently a British shipowner, L. H. Cripps of the Elder Dempster Lines, Liverpool, in a letter to the press, argued for autonomy and even monopoly for shipowners in the choice of methods of transport. The job of shipping, he wrote, "is the carriage of cargo and passengers overseas, over the water and on the water and under the water, in accordance with what the shipowners consider the best known method." To interfere with that choice, he added, would be as unfair as if "the government refused the coal owners the use of the most economic machinery."

Mr. Cripps unfortunately confused shipowners and shippers. His reasoning holds good for exporters and importers. To deny them the right to select any method of transport—land, sea, air or a combination of all three—would be as inexcusable as it would be to deny coal companies or any other industry the right to select their own machinery. But it does not hold good for steamship interests.

His confusion is another sample of the misunderstanding that still surrounds the new and vast possibilities of transport through the skies. In this connection there is a curious parallel between commercial and military minds.

Ground generals in the past have argued that all planes flying over land belong to the Army. Admirals, similarly, have insisted that all aviation operating over water should be part of the Navy. As a mater of fact this war has demonstrated what airmen have long pointed out—that despite whatever arbitrary division is still being made, the "air ocean" belongs neither to the Army nor the Navy, but is an element distinct from land and water, with strategic and tactical laws and problems of its own.

—AVIATION IS BY ITSELF—

Now the military fallacy seems to be echoed in the business world. Railroad interests seem to feel that they have some special rights to air transport over land, and shipowner interests to aerial traffic over water. In truth, however, aviation operates in a medium quite unrelated to either land or water. Its methods, its skills, its laws must derive from its special and unique character.

The fallacious conclusion on the part of men like Cripps flows from a mistaken assumption. He attributes to shipowners too large a role in the scheme of things. It would be more logical for him to compare shipowners to the railroad or trucking lines which haul coal from the mine to its destination, rather than to coal owners. Should the mine owners decide to use aircraft instead of surface carriers, they would hardly be expected to entrust the task to truck drivers and locomotive engineers. They would of necessity deal with a specialized aviation outfit, properly organized and staffed by aeronautical experts.

Men like the British shipowner—and we have some like them in our own country—simply do not grasp that a new era in transport has dawned with the opening of the skies as a new and more efficient medium of communication. We shall never get straight in our thinking on the problem until we recognize that there is no such thing as air-over-water and air-over-land. It is all the same air, as boundless and continuous as the seas and continents put together. Shipowners have no more claim on overseas aviation than truck owners have on overland aviation.

It is an open question whether it would be beneficial to the country as a whole for surface carriers to control airlines. But even if that should appear desirable, there is no reason why a shipowner should be conceded any inherent or hereditary priority over any other transferring agency in owning airlines across the water.

England will have to forget that it was once an insular nation, because modern aviation has ended insularity. By the same token, the world as a whole must forget that there are seas and continents in the old sense. Aviation has converted the entire surface of the globe into a single indivisible continent.

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

MORE DIVING — Perhaps it may be too late for this season, but the Bugler has received a suggestion which might very well be applied at the Escanaba swimming beach. The suggestion is that diving be encouraged, and diving instruction be included as a part of the swimming program.

At this point the Bugler would like, for the benefit of some, to point out that Escanaba has, contrary to some opinion, a fine swimming beach. The beach where the city maintains life guard service is gently sloping and safe. The water is clean because the beach is at the outer sand bar. There is a diving float, and another float for younger swimmers closer to shore. During the recent hot weather period thousands of persons became acquainted with the municipal beach for the first time.

This is no attempt to gloss over the deficiencies at the beach. These include, 1—A lack of clean and adequate beach house and rest rooms; 2—A lack of good, clean sand between the roadway and the beach, which is now strewn with broken glass, cinders and old metal.

But these are conditions which time and city workmen will overcome. Generally, swimmers find the beach satisfactory. The city has further improved of Liddington Park beach high on its list of postwar work projects and in the years to come the beach will become better both from the standpoint of facilities and attractiveness.

THEY LIKE IT—While the recent hot weather drove many oldersters to the beach, most of the swimming is done throughout the season by the youngsters. They think the beach is swell, and some of them are fair to middling swimmers.

However, there is a noticeable lack of good divers among the Escanaba swimmers, probably due to the shortness of the season, the absence from the city of many of the young men who once were diving in Green Bay waters and are now splashing around in the Pacific, Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Diving is a sport of youth. If you don't learn before you get out of your teens, you seldom take it up later.

DEAR BUGLER—I am a lover of fancy diving and I sit at the beach day after day watching the young people dive—but as yet I have seen no one who can even execute a halfway decent jack-nife.

It seems there is no one around the beach these days who can teach fancy diving. Or I might say, no one that even knows anything about it. We have a fairly decent springboard out there now and all we need is an instructor.

Do you remember about ten years back, when Joel Olson was the lifeguard and Verne Boyle and Floris Fredricksen were the kings of the fancy divers? These boys could do anything on a springboard from a plain front dive to a difficult double somersault and a half gainer. Boyle was the master of the half gainer—a difficult but beautiful dive.

Boyle's back was blistered until it was raw when he was learning the gainer, while Fredricksen was black and blue from head to toe from working on the double somersault, but they finally mastered them. These boys had, besides the four required dives, at least 10 optional dives.

That year and the following two or three years they had everyone, young and old, diving and there were some beautiful dives performed there. Cars parked at the beach continually to watch the divers—a beautiful spectacle. Every year there was a swimming

These boys coached everyone who was interested without pay, and they turned out some wonderful swimmers and divers.

Now here is the thing: Two of these men are still around. One was deferred from the army for an old football injury, and the other was injured while in the Merchant Marines. I am almost positive that if someone would contact either or both of these men they would be willing to offer their services for an hour each night, or every other night, and teach the younger people the fundamentals of diving.

In fact, if this is printed in your column and they read it, they won't have to be contacted—they will be willing to offer their services. They truly love the sport.

Boyle resides at 211 Stephenson avenue, and Fredricksen at 329 South 19th street.

Yours for better diving.

A Reader.

IT TAKES INTEREST — The Bugler thanks "A Reader" for his contribution and at the same time suggests that, because of the lateness of the season, the two men be contacted immediately. This might be done by the director of the city recreation department, who has always welcomed public interest in the city's recreation program.

It is such constructive interest as "A Reader" displays that will make the Escanaba beach an outstanding contribution to the community. Any suggestion which will arouse public interest and participation in swimming and diving is very much worthwhile.

Frankly, Escanaba folks have been too busy criticizing the city and the swimming beach to visit there and find out for themselves what a good time thousands of people are having there every week. They hear a rumor and believe it, or they let the disadvantages the Bugler mentioned earlier outweigh all of the natural advantages to be found there.

THE LYONS DEN

NEW YORK—While he was in New York, Damon Runyon accompanied a cameraman to the top of the Translux Theatre's marquee. The cameraman was preparing to photograph Broadway, Times Square first and then uptown in the direction of Lindy's. They studied the strip whose footage probably is the most expensive in the world. Runyon nudged the cameraman, and said: "I've earned more money from this street than the people who own the real estate on it."

GEX. RICHARDSON of the British Army tells this story of the tough New Zealand troops who became so expert in jungle warfare. These troops were commanded by New Zealand's Gen. Freyberg. An American general who visited Freyberg's base told the New Yorker: "Your troops are extraordinary fellows. Not one of them saluted me the entire day." "Oh, really?" Freyberg answered. "Well, I'll tell you something. If you wave to them, they'll always wave back."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON (Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—The late General Wladislaw Sikorski, Premier of Poland, who favored cooperation with Russia, had a faithful aide and secretary, Hieronim Rettinger, who accompanied Sikorski almost everywhere. However, fate ruled that he was not with the Polish Premier during the latter's fatal plane crash.

After Sikorski was killed, Rettinger was not happy over the trend of Polish affairs. Finally, he went to Premier Mikolajczyk, told him he wanted to leave the Polish Government-in-Exile and return to Poland to help the underground. Mikolajczyk was sympathetic but asked how Rettinger expected to return.

"I can return by parachute," was the reply.

"But you're too old for that," argued Mikolajczyk. "That's a hazard only for young men."

Rettinger countered that he was 57 and plenty young enough to take a parachute jump for the sake of his homeland.

Finally, the Polish Premier yielded to the point of advising Rettinger to go up to Scotland and take two or three practice jumps in order to be ready for the big jump over Poland. But Rettinger replied: "No. After the first jump, I would desert and run away to London. At my age, I have one jump in me. I can jump from a plane over Poland, but that is all. No practice jumps in Scotland."

So finally, last February, Rettinger did jump over Poland and did join the Polish underground.

The amazing thing, however, is that, when Premier Mikolajczyk recently left on his all-important mission to Moscow, Polish officials managed to get word to Rettinger inside Poland via the underground; also managed to get him out of Poland and bring him to Cairo.

In Cairo, Rettinger met Premier Mikolajczyk and had a very important conference, during which he gave a first-hand report regarding the sentiment of the Polish people toward Russia, the status of their resistance, and other information needed by the Premier for his conference with Stalin.

—DEWEY'S WHITE HOUSE FRIEND—

Best friend Governor Dewey has inside or around the White House today is not Bernie Baruch, who tries to win friends for Dewey, nor even Fred Sears, Jr., ex-advisee to Justice Byrnes, who contributed $2,000 to the Dewey campaign. Actually, Dewey's best White House friend, in the opinion of other Presidential advisers, is General "Pa" Watson, FDR's own closest secretary.

Pa is not for Dewey, but he is accused of playing into Dewey's hands by needling the President against Wendell Willkie.

Other White House intimates have been reminding the President how Willkie went down the line for him on taxes, on foreign policy and on every phase of the war, say that he could swing a million or so votes if he were brought closer to the White House. But their work is undone by genial Pa Watson, the man who sees the President most, who privately considers Willkie a liberal not to be trusted, and who doesn't hesitate to give the President his views.

If Roosevelt and Willkie get together, it will not be Pa Watson's fault.

Meanwhile, the Dewey camp is still sending all sorts of ambassadors of good will to Willkie, trying to win him over to support for the Republican ticket. Latest report is that Willkie can be Secretary of State if he joins up. So far, he hasn't budged; but if Pa Watson keeps on, he may.

—GERMAN VOTE NOMINATES NYE—

When they got through counting the ballots for and against isolationist Senator Gerald Nye in North Dakota's Republican primary, they found that it was one intensely pro-German district, McIntosh County, which put him across.

McIntosh County is largely controlled by the Wishek family, plus other Germans who have kept strong sympathies with the fatherland. The county voted almost solidly for Nye—with one unique exception—giving him a 1,368 margin.

At the last minute, election authorities almost held up the country's vote on the ground that no auditor's election real had been placed on the abstract of votes. Had the 1,368 votes finally been thrown out, Nye's leading competitor, Lynn Stambaugh, would have won, since he trailed Nye by only 972 votes in the over-all State tally.

—UNIQUE EXCEPTION—

Unique exception to Nye's sweep of McIntosh County was the fact that Congressman Usher Burdick, who ran a close third, carried the town of Wishek, the county seat. Here is the untold story of how he did it.

Driving through this German stronghold, Burdick decided that he didn't have a chance, but that he would at least see what the people were talking and thinking about. So he dropped in at a tavern where several Germans were drinking beer.

Without introducing himself, Burdick got to talking with them, bought them some sausage, and got into a game of rummy. The game lasted most of the afternoon. Finally, one of the Germans said: "Aren't you Congressman Burdick?"

"Yes," Burdick replied. "But that doesn't make any difference. I know you are all against me here, and I just wanted to drop in and have some fun."

When the election returns were counted, Burdick, a forthright anti-Nazi and anti-isolationist, had carried Wishek against Nye.

Worry Clinic

A Psychologist

By Dr. George W. Crane
CASE D-225: Anette B., aged 34, is the mother of two little boys.

"I have read your column for several years and usually agree with your advice, Dr. Crane," she announced at the opening of our interview.

"But you have constantly urged parents to send their children to Sunday school.

"I disagree with that, for I have seen too many hypocrites in the church.

"Two or three times after we began reading your column, my husband and I started to attend one or another church, but we never went very long for we always found hypocrites there.

"So why do you insist that children be brought up in the Sunday school?"

Diagnosis
Annette's attitude is very juvenile and I can prove that statement. When a youngster goes to kindergarten or first grade, his teacher stands for the whole field of education.

If she wears a sourpuss face or is caustic and sharp tongued, then the child may dislike the entire idea of formal education. He tells his mother he hates school and may later try to play hooky.

What he dislikes is not school, but the principal exponent of the school system, namely, his teacher who is synonymous thereof.

We can excuse the child's identification of his teacher or 6 years when he enters grammar school.

Kindergarten Parents
But when a grown man or woman indulges in this juvenile fallacy of damning a church because he finds somebody in the congregation whom he dislikes, or whom he considers to be a hypocrite, then we cannot condone such illogic.

There are hypocrites in every church, and even among the clergy. But religion contains fundamental truths in the field of ethics, just as mathematics includes similar truths in that realm.

Wouldn't Annette be considered foolish if she refused to use the multiplication tables because some arithmetic teacher made a few mistakes in using his mathematics?

A personal error by a professor does not invalidate the science which he is paid to teach. Annette and similar adults must learn to be logical.

Nor does a mistake by a clergyman or parishioner invalidate the basic merit in the Golden Rule or the Good Samaritan policy.

Send Children to Sunday School
The Sunday schools are conducted by men and women who generously donate their time to help encourage idealism and unselfishness in your youngsters.

Those teachers may arise on sub-zero, blizzardy mornings and when most of us prefer to lie abed. They study and plan the lessons for the benefit of your youngsters.

Even if there are hypocrites in the church, your children are not likely to meet them in the Sunday schools, and probably would not recognize the hypocrisy if they did encounter it, so quit hamstringing the growth of practical idealism in your youth, simply because you cherish a few illogical grudges against the hypocrites.

Potatoes In New
Bags Priced Same

Deliveries of potatoes in renovated used bags may be made at the same prices as those prevailing for deliveries in new bags, the War Food Administration announced today in a new amendment to the 1944 price support for Irish potatoes.

There will be no price differential for deliveries of potatoes in used bags of uniform appearance, which have been thoroughly cleaned, thoroughly mended, and turned either plain or reprinted with a brand customarily used by the participant. A deduction of ten cents per cwt is continued with respect to deliveries in all other used bags. The original program provided a ten cent differential for deliveries in all used bags, regardless of condition.

Today's action is designed to conserve supplies of new burlap and to encourage maximum use of sound used containers.

A personal error by a professor does not invalidate the science which he is paid to teach. Annette and similar adults must learn to be logical.

Nor does a mistake by a clergyman or parishioner invalidate the basic merit in the Golden Rule or the Good Samaritan policy.

Send Children to Sunday School
The Sunday schools are conducted by men and women who generously donate their time to help encourage idealism and unselfishness in your youngsters.

Those teachers may arise on sub-zero, blizzardy mornings and when most of us prefer to lie abed. They study and plan the lessons for the benefit of your youngsters.

Even if there are hypocrites in the church, your children are not likely to meet them in the Sunday schools, and probably would not recognize the hypocrisy if they did encounter it, so quit hamstringing the growth of practical idealism in your youth, simply because you cherish a few illogical grudges against the hypocrites.

BADGER VOTE WILL BE LIGHT

Leathem D. Smith Seeks
G. O. P. Nomination
For Senator

Milwaukee, Aug. 14. (P)—Party chiefs predict a light vote in Tuesday's Wisconsin primary, held five weeks earlier than usual in order to permit absentee voting by soldiers.

Political observers say that the people's thoughts are on the war; that many consider state and local problems of minor importance compared with the conflict; and that the election comes at the height of the vacation season and at a busy period for farmers.

Thomas E. Coleman, Republican party chairman, has predicted a vote of approximately 350,000 and claims two-thirds of it will be cast in the Republican primary. Thomas R. King, Democratic chairman, has admitted that lively Republican contests will cut down his party's vote. The Progressives, too, have few contests and the Socialists have none.

Five seek the Republican nomination for governor, among them the 81-year-old incumbent, Walter S. Goodland, whose age has been made a campaign issue.

Daniel W. Hoan, former Socialist mayor of Milwaukee, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

United States Senator Alexander Wiley, seeking renomination on the Republican ticket, is opposed by Capt. Joseph R. McCarthy, a circuit judge on leave of absence and serving with the Marine Corps; Leathem D. Smith, a shipbuilder; and Perry J. Stearns, a lawyer. Rep. Harry Sauthoff, Progressive; Rep. Howard J. McMurday, Democrat; and Walter H. Uphoff, Socialist, are unopposed.

Gives Intoxicants To Minors; Judge Metes Out 90 Days

Charles Gardman, 81, of Grand Marais was given a 90 day sentence in the county jail when he pleaded guilty to furnishing intoxicating beverages to minors. The charge came from the case of the two Grand Marais youths who stole gas from Endress' bulk station after they had been given liquor by Gardman. It was also brought out in court that this man was a habitual buyer of liquor for minors. Trooper Chenoweth, who made the arrest, stated to the Press this morning that every effort will be made to stamp out these cases of older people buying liquor for minors, because this is one of the biggest contributors towards juvenile delinquency.

Roosevelt To Receive Many Urgings To Talk

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Now that the Pacific war talks are over, President Roosevelt is being importuned to go on the air with an address to the nation that may or may not mention politics but will help to renew his relationship with the American people.

Many within the administration have become acutely aware that to most people, including those who once regarded him almost as a personal friend, the president has become a strange and distant figure. So, if they can get to him, they will urge him to go on the radio.

It isn't necessary, they argue, to talk politics. Simply let him report to the people on what he saw in Hawaii and on the problems of the war in the Pacific.

Those who urge this line realize that the Republicans will immediately charge him with using his office as commander in chief to get re-elected. But, they say, that charge will come regardless of what the president does or says.

Line of Demarcation—As Governor Dewey has already indicated, the Republicans intend to hammer at the commander in chief role. When does the commander in chief stop being the commander in chief, and when does he become a candidate for re-election? That's the question which the GOP intends to press as the campaign progresses.

His trip across the country to the west coast was secret, under wartime security. But while his train was in the railroad yards at Chicago, Democratic National Chairman Hannegan came on board the president's private car to talk about the vice presidential dilemma. That is the kind of dualism which the Republicans intend to stress in coming weeks.

Whether the president will respond to pleas for a radio talk is a question. He has been stubborn on this score during the past two years, even when the urging has come from non-political sources. Many people, leaving politics to one side, feel he owes it to Americans everywhere to tell more about the course of the war.

Apart from his acceptance speech, he has made only one long address to the nation during the past seven months. That was last Christmas Eve, when he reported on his conference at Cairo with Chiang Kai-Shek and at Teheran with Churchill and Stalin. On June 5 he made a short radio talk on the fall of Rome, and a few days later he appealed to war bond buyers; but these were not in the class of the fireside chats of another day.

The president is said to be hypersensitive to the charge of playing politics in the commander in chief role. He knows that this would be deeply resented by people generally if it were to seem, or if the opposition could make it seem, that he was openly exploiting his war job.

Many Wait for Boss—Whatever his public role, there are important political decisions he must make in private and soon. His running mate, Senator Harry S. Truman, is waiting for the president's return so the two can sit down together and map out the campaign. Truman will do whatever the president wants him to do, but he would infinitely prefer not to have to stump the country. Hannegan, too, has been waiting to see the boss. He is well aware, however, that most of the decisions will have to be made without help from the president.

The admirals and the generals have Number 1 priority at the White House. Anyone else has to work hard to get in, unless the president wants to see him.

The demands on the president to speak will become more urgent the nearer election day comes, particularly if it seems likely to be close. He will be implored to go on the air to save Missouri, to save Kentucky, to save the labor vote, to save the independent vote. It was that way in 1940.

Nine times out of ten, I would guess, his answer will be no. He can say in honesty that he's busy with more important things. Switching the major war effort from the Atlantic to the Pacific, now just beginning, is the job of the president who is commander in chief, and it's no small job.

LAKE VESSELS BREAK RECORDS

Bulk Cargoes Delivered
Pass Tonnage Mark
For Fourth Month

For the fourth consecutive month this season, combined bulk cargoes delivered in Great Lakes vessels during July broke all existing tonnage records. It was announced today as compilation of totals from all ports was completed by the Lake Carriers' Association.

The bituminous coal movement set another new high, with 6,917,938 net tons shipped — substantially more than in any corresponding month during past seasons. The June movement of this

Although grain shipments traditionally taper off during mid-summer, the July traffic exceeded 51,000,000 bushels, amounting to 1,481,549 tons.

Delivery of ore from the northern iron ranges to blast furnaces and lower lake ports continued well in line with shipping schedules laid down at the opening of navigation this year. Although the total was less than in July of 1943 and 1942, the 14,458,049 net tons of iron ore moved last month raised the combined tonnage of all bulk commodities to 22,857,536 net tons, which was three-quarters of a million tons greater than for the corresponding month of the record-breaking year of 1942.

Cumulative tonnage for the above commodities for the four-month period from April 1st to August 1st is shown in comparison to figures for the preceding two years.

SEES ROTARY IN POSTWAR ROLE

Officer Of Rotary International Voices Hope
For Future

C. Albert Oulton, Saskatoon, Sask., Canada, member of the extension committee of Rotary International, yesterday declared in a talk to the Escanaba Rotary club that after the war "Rotary will come back stronger than ever," even in countries in which the movement has been banned by Axis leaders.

Oulton brought to the club greetings from Canada, of which he spoke briefly in describing its relationship to the United States.

The spirit of friendship and goodwill which has marked the relationship of the two nations is the same spirit that resulted in the birth of Rotary International. From the United States the Rotary movement spread first to Canada, then to Ireland and the British Isles, and then across Europe and around the world. Exception among the larger nations is Russia, which never had a Rotary club.

In China, even though their country has been ravaged by war and the clubs have been bombed out of their meeting places, Rotary clubs continue in existence. The Rotarians of China claim they will have 2,000 clubs after the war, Oulton said.

The Rotary movement died first in Spain. It was driven out of Germany, where Hitler ruled that no Nazi could be a Rotarian. Italy followed in banning Rotary clubs.

"But I believe that Rotary will come back in those countries and in other countries around the world stronger than ever after the war," the Rotary International representative declared.

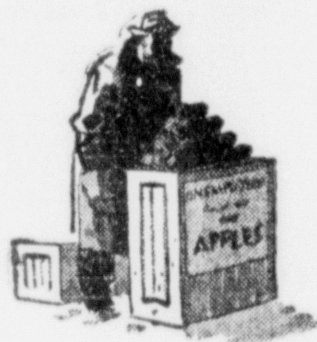

He cautioned against over-optimism in progress of the war, and said that we have now little more than a toe-hold "on the hill to victory."

111 Cedar StreetFIRE PARTIALLY DESTROYS HOMEGasoline Explosion In Basement Is Cause
Of Blaze

Two juvenile youths, whose names were not revealed, were taken in custody by city police yesterday following a fire Sunday night which partially destroyed the L. C. Randall residence at the corner of Fifth street and Montana avenue.

Called to the scene of the blaze, Police Chief Torval Kallerson entered the basement of the home, where it was reported the fire had started. Upon investigation, he found parts of two containers, which smelled of gasoline and yesterday morning called the two boys in for questioning.

The youngsters admitted their guilt and revealed the fire was caused by an explosion that occurred when one of them lit a match while they were cleaning gasoline by pouring it through a cloth from a large container into a gallon jug. Further questioning by the chief brought out the fact that the gasoline had been stolen from two boats at the harbor.

According to Chief Kallerson, the boys will be turned over to the probate court.

The fire department was called out twice, the first time at 11 p. m. and again at 5 a. m. Although the blaze was apparently extinguished the first time, it broke out between the walls again early yesterday morning. A front corner of the home was damaged considerably, but no estimate of the loss was available yesterday.

Slye-Wing

Of interest here, former home of the bride, who is a graduate of Gladstone high school, is the following account from the Flagstaff, Arizona, press, of the wedding of Miss Dorothy G. Slye and Robert N. Wing.

"Simple but impressive ceremonies Saturday afternoon, July 22, at 2:30 o'clock in the Federated church at Flagstaff united in marriage Miss Dorothy Slye and Robert N. Wing, of Flagstaff. Miss Slye was classmate of the local Social Security Board, and Mr. Wing is with the local United States Weather Bureau.

"The Rev. Robert Price officiated and the couple was attended by Miss Ethel Dieter and Lee Richmond.

"The bride chose for her wedding a turquoise blue ensemble with white accessories and her corsage was an arrangement of gardenias and white roses.

"The bride was transferred to the Flagstaff offices in February from Detroit, Michigan where she served in a similar capacity.

"Her husband came to the city in May as junior meteorologist, shortly after receiving a medical discharge from the U. S. Navy. During his period of service he was aerographer on the USS Enterprise and took part in fourteen engagements with the enemy.

"Mr. and Mrs. Wing left immediately after the ceremony on a brief honeymoon to the Grand Canyon and upon their return will be at home in the Hanna Apartments."

LICENSE PLATES
MOVING SLOWLYEmpson Warns Motorists
To Obtain Half Year
Tags Early

With only 15 days remaining prior to the expiration date for half year license plates for the first half of 1944, only about 15 tags have been issued here, it was revealed yesterday by Lewis N. Empson, manager of the Escanaba branch license bureau.

Empson urged auto owners to get their plates as soon as possible in order to avoid standing in line, pointing out that a total of 664 half year passenger plates alone were sold up through the end of February.

"We generally find that there is a larger sale for the last half of the year than the first portion," he said, "as it seems more people who buy licenses of this type drive their cars during the second six months of the year."

"If the sale doesn't pick up soon, I'm very much afraid that these people who wait until the last day or two to obtain licenses are going to find themselves standing in line. This doesn't apply to passenger car owners alone, as we sold 133 commercial licenses covering the first half of the year, and the total sold for this type of vehicle for the next six months has been negligible."

The number of plates sold here this year is running considerably behind the figure set last year, a factor which as the result of the cut in gasoline rations, bureau officials believe.

Owners of passenger cars are reminded that when applying for plates they must bring with them their titles, while persons owning commercial vehicles must bring with them titles and certificates of registration. If no certificate of registration is available the application must be accompanied by a weight slip.

Plates for trailers are also on sale at the Gladstone office, which serves motorists in Rapid River, Nahma, Perkins, Brampton and Rock, in addition to those who reside here.

Announce Pairings
In Horseshoe Loop

Pairings in the city horseshoe league for matches to be played tonight announced by the recreation department yesterday are as follows: F. Schram vs. Strom, Sturgeon vs. Wikom, Van Damme vs. S. Schram, Sabourin vs. Goodman, Van Daele vs. Cannon and Westcott vs. Anderson.

Two baseball games are scheduled for tonight also with the C. I. O. of Gladstone entertaining the North Side of Escanaba at the Buckeye diamond and the Gladstone East End meeting the Escanaba West End at the Park field.

Recreation officials report an increased interest in tennis classes, which are held each morning and afternoon, during the past week. There is still room, however, in both beginning and advanced classes, for additional students. Those interested should report to the recreation director at the tennis courts.

Growth of Ragweed
Is Reported Here

Evidence that ragweed, the bane of all hay fever sufferers is growing again in Gladstone, at least in small quantities, was reported to the city building yesterday, when a sample of one of the plants was brought in by a local resident. She reported finding the plant growing near her home.

This is the first instance that the growth of the plant in this vicinity has been reported since it was dug up several years ago on a county wide basis as a federal project.

City Manager A. J. Henriksen urged residents to inspect their property and if they found any evidence of the plant to destroy it immediately, as if the weed is not pulled it spreads rapidly. Persons knowing where the plant might be growing in sections of the city not privately owned are requested to report this information to the city building.

DEATH-DEFYING MOP-UP—Dangers and difficulties

Liberty Loan, Of Iron Mountain, Wins Class A Softball Title

WHITE BIRCH IS CLASS B WINNER

Championship Go Blows Up In Seventh With Two Men Out

An uproarious seventh inning defeat gave the Liberty Loan team the Class A softball championship of the peninsular here Sunday evening. The Gliders of Iron Mountain refusing to continue play after protesting an umpire's decision in the last half of the last inning of the championship game. Actually the default team of a clear victory in the championship game because they were leading, 2-1, with two men out and nobody on base when the game blew up.

The White Birch Juniors captured the Class B title with an easy 10 to 1 victory over the C&NW 400's of Escanaba.

The Class A championship game exploded when Umpire Jens Jensen called Paoli, Glider third baseman, out at second base on an attempted steal. Paoli, slid under the tag and was called safe in Jensen's first decision but Jensen immediately changed the ruling and called Paoli out. He later explained that after sliding safely into the bag, Paoli over-sledd the base and was tagged by the second base man. Paoli refused to accept the verdict and said, "down on the bag."

His teammates joined in the argument but Jensen refused to reverse his decision. The Gliders then refused to continue play and the game was ordered forfeited to the Liberty Loans.

The White Birch team teed off on Winchester, 400 pitcher, in the first inning of the Class B championship game, scoring five runs. They added five more in the third inning, when LaCrosse relieved Winchester. The 400's escaped a shutout by scoring their lone tally in the sixth inning.

The two Escanaba Class A teams were eliminated in the opening round, the L&L bowing to the Kingsford Pirates, 3 to 2, and the Wells DX losing to the No. 3 Spars of Iron Mountain, 6 to 4.

The Roving Reporter

your flank.

Sometimes a unit will get so far out ahead of those on either side that it has to swing around and fight to its rear. Sometimes we fire on our own troops, thinking we are in German territory. You can't see anything, and you can't even tell from the sounds, for each side uses some of the other's captured weapons.

The tanks and the infantry had to work in the closest cooperation in breaking through the German ring that tried to pin us down in the headhead area. Neither could have done it alone.

The troops are of two minds about having tanks around them. If you're a foot soldier you hate to be near a tank, for it always draws fire. On the other hand, if the going gets tough you pray for a tank to come up and start blasting with its guns.

In our breakthrough each infantry unit had tanks attached to it. It was the tanks and the infantry that broke through that ring and punched a hole for the armored divisions to go through.

The armored divisions practically ran amuck, racing long distances and playing hob, once they got behind the German lines, but it was the infantry and their attached tanks that opened the gate for them.

Tanks shuttling back and forth from one field to another, through our breakthrough, battle, receiving their orders by radio. Bulldozers punched holes through the hedgerows for them, and then the tanks would come up and blast out the bad spots of the opposition.

It has been necessary for us to wreck almost every farmhouse and little village in our path. The Germans used them for strong points, or put artillery observers in them, and they just had to be blasted out.

Most of the French farmers evacuate ahead of the fighting and flatter back after it has passed. It is pitiful to see them come back to their demolished homes and towns. Yet it's wonderful to see the grand way they take it.

In a long drive for an infantry company may go for a couple of days without letting up. Ammunition is carried up to it by hand, and occasionally by jeep. The soldiers sometimes eat only one K ration a day. They may run clear out of water. Their strength is gradually whittled down by wounds, exhaustion cases and straggling.

Finally they will get an order to sit where they are and dig in. Then another company will pass through, or around them, and so on with the fighting. The relieved company may get to rest as much as a day or two. But in a big push such as the one that broke us out of the headhead, a few hours is about all they can expect.

The company I was with got its orders to rest about 5 one afternoon. They dug foxholes along the hedgerows, or commandeered German ones already dug. Regardless of how tired you may be, you always dig in the first thing.

Then they sent some men with cans looking for water. They got more K rations up by jeep, and set on the ground eating them.

They hoped they would stay there all night, but they weren't counting on it too much. Shortly after supper a lieutenant came out of a farmhouse and told the sergeants to pass the word to be

AIR CORPS HERO TO COME HERE

Lt. Fagan Will Explain Opportunities For Enlistment

Seventeen year old men of Escanaba and vicinity will have an opportunity to receive first-hand information on the many new opportunities available to those enlisting in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve when Lt. James V. Fagan, recently returned from thirty combat missions in the European theatre, visits the Elks Club at Escanaba for a single day on Saturday August 19.

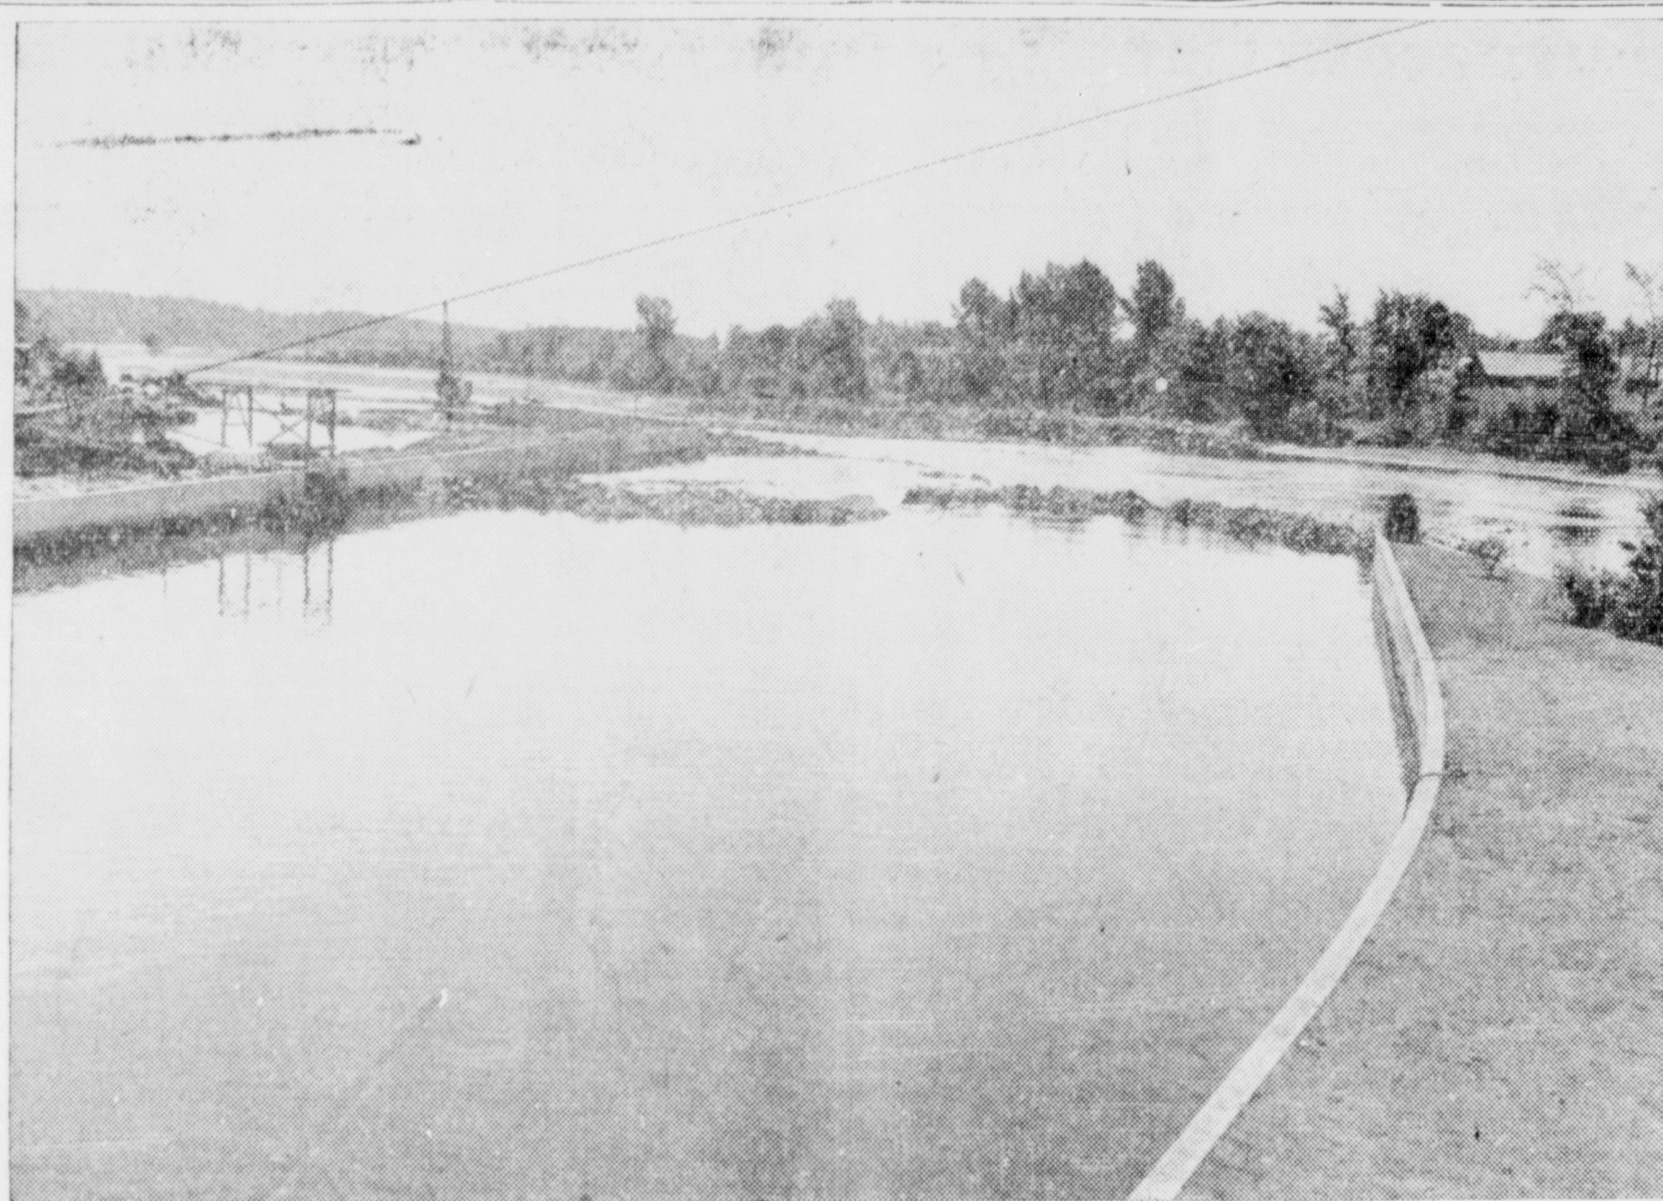

Interested and eligible young men will be given the opportunity to personally interview Lt. Fagan and ask him questions concerning their coming career with the Army Air Forces. Lt. John E. Sage of the Milwaukee Army Air Forces Examining Board and members of the local Civil Air Patrol will also be on hand to give mental screening tests and preliminary physical examinations, thus enabling local 17-year olds to qualify for the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve right in their own home town.

No Wash-Outs, No Transfers
Under the new Army Air Force Enlistment program, 17-year olds who make the grade as an Air Corps Enlisted Reservist will be permitted to remain in the Army Air Forces once they are called to active duty after attaining the age of 18. "There are no wash-outs, no transfers from the A.A.F.," Lt. Fagan pointed out. "Whether you make the grade as an aerial gunner, pilot, navigator or bombardier, you'll be permitted to stay with the greatest team in the world."

On his visit here Lt. Fagan plans to point out the advantages of the free college training offered to high school graduates who have reached the age of 17, but are less than 17 years and eight months old. Books, tuition, room, board, clothing—plus a bona fide college course—all will be provided at no cost to the qualified applicant. The younger an applicant is when he signs up the more free schooling will be received.

Those failing to make the grade because of some minor physical defect can still receive free college training by joining the Enlisted Reserve Corps. 17-year olds joining the ERC will also be provided with everything but their personal needs while attending an accredited college or university. Lt. Fagan points out that this free training program "not only will enable young men to prepare for their soon due military life, but in most cases, the credits received while attending school as a member of the Enlisted Reserve Corps may later be applied to their education when they return to college after military service."

REROUTING A RIVER BED—The tail race at the Escanaba Paper company was reconstructed recently by workmen of the company by rerouting the flow of water of the Escanaba river. The new river bed is pictured here with the project virtually completed. Sand and rocks on the far end of the tail race will be removed. The paper mill is not visible in this picture.

Place Watchman At Victory Gardens

Following a report that vegetables had been stolen from one plot at the city victory garden site at 23rd street and Fifth avenue south, the city is stationing a watchman there, it was announced yesterday by Robert Clayton, city victory garden chairman.

Ripening tomatoes and cucumbers were reported to have been stolen. It was the first time so far this season that garden thefts have occurred.

Clayton said that for the protection of garden crops and to assist the watchman, all gardeners must carry the identification cards issued to them, and that garden plots must have placards bearing the name of the proprietor and the plot number. These signs were erected by the city last spring but some gardeners have taken them down.

Farmland Price Trend Subject of Study Here

To provide information designed to prevent wartime boom rise in the price of farmlands, and the postwar foreclosure of land mortgages a survey to determine the trend of prices paid for farmlands is being made in Delta and seven other Michigan counties.

The survey is being made by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics and by Michigan State College. In Escanaba yesterday Karl Wright, Michigan State College research associate, was compiling data from records in the register of deeds office.

Delta and Iron counties are the two to be surveyed in the Upper Peninsula, while the six below the Straits are Emmet, Ogemaw, Gratiot, Livingston, Lenawee and Van Buren. George Hurrell of Michigan State College is making the study in Iron county.

The collection of data was started the first of the year, and will show, when the sampling is completed:

- 1—How many tracts of farmlands have changed hands.
- 2—The number of acres that have transferred.
- 3—The price paid for the lands.
- 4—The number of purchased farms that are mortgaged.

From this and other data there will be a study made to determine the rise in prices paid for farmlands, the average now compared with prewar averages. It will also show the number of farms that are mortgaged.

"The study made in Lower Michigan counties shows the price of farmlands is now 20 per cent above the 1910-1940 average," Wright said. "The price average went up more rapidly than it did in the last war, and there were more farm properties changed hands in the past year than in any year in history."

"There is one bright spot in the picture. That is that the total farm mortgage debt is declining now, while in the last war it was increasing."

"We believe that by providing information to the public from the survey the people may recognize the 'dynamite' in the situation. It should be a help in controlling inflation of farmland prices above their normal earning value."

He pointed out that in the postwar period there may be heavily mortgaged farms unable to pay off, and that if prices of lands are too high it will discourage.

Editor Daily Press:
I saw something today, done by a man who is supposed to be of average standing, at least. He stopped on his way to work, and put the family garbage in the waste can provided for use by the picnic tables along the highway. Now, I concede that one party doing this isn't so much, but if we all did likewise the county would have quite a garbage collection on their hands! We all cannot be too indolent to bury or burn the garbage! Seems to me an act of this sort, is like the picnickers who leave trash strewn about, or leave a gate open and let cattle out on the road—and then holler when privileges are revoked and picnic grounds posted.

Sgt. Joseph Eis Is Awarded Medal For Heroic Action

Joseph S. Eis, Technical Sergeant, Infantry, who is in the Italian Theatre of War, was awarded a bronze star medal on May 12, for heroic achievement in action. During a period when his company was engaged in action with the enemy, T-Sgt. Eis proceeded under heavy enemy machine gun, mortar and artillery fire into a field known to be mined in order that he might evacuate three seriously wounded comrades to a position where they could be given medical treatment. T-Sgt. Eis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eis, 221 North 11th street. He entered the service two years ago and has been overseas for nine months.

COAL WORKER KILLED ON JOB

Steve Gorenchan Victim Of Accident Sunday At Wells

Steve Gorenchan, of No. 6 Electric avenue, Wells, was almost instantly killed Sunday morning at 10:50 o'clock when he was struck by a cleanup clam while unloading coal from the steamer Munising at the Escanaba Coal and Dock company dock at Wells.

Gorenchan, who was working in the boat, suffered internal injuries and died before he could be removed to the hospital.

Mr. Gorenchan was employed as a laborer by the city of Escanaba, and was employed on his day off from his regular duties by the coal company.

He was born in Zaluka, Croatia, June Slavia, on October 13, 1881. He was a member of the Croatian Fraternal Union, Sacred Heart of Jesus Lodge, No. 335, of St. Joseph's Catholic Croatian Lodge, No. 39, and of the Holy Name Society.

Surviving are three daughters and three sons, Mrs. George Perle (Veronica), Mrs. Thomas Krall (Rose), and Mrs. Lloyd Beauchamp (Mary), of Wells; Charles of Marquette, John, with the U. S. Army in England, and George, U. S. Marines, in the South Pacific, and six grandchildren. His wife died in December, 1942.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home where it is in state. Services will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, Rev. Fr. Alphonse, O. F. M., officiating, and burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.
